Whenever a child feels uncomfortable or being ill, as a mother, she would do her best to minimise the ills and pains. Therefore, it happened by chance, heard from the supervisor mentioned the goodness and good will of the heart about learning Longevityology, “Right, this is what I dream of to do!” Felt happy in my heart, from then on I often search for the web site of Longevityology on the internet, made a note of the courses dates and related information.

I remembered just before the course starting, my child’s nose was severely blocked, unable to breath through his nose, at night he was sleeping with his mouth opened, that made his lips so dried, even started to bleed.. From his heavy breathing, also made I unable to sleep had to wake him up and put him in a comfortable position to sleep.

The first day at the class, had the chakras 7 and 6 opened, the teacher mentioned that we already have the energy to apply adjustments for people, without wasting any moment and followed the teacher’s guidance. When the child is sleeping, treat the blocked nose problem, when I placed my hands on my child’s head and nose that moment, I could feel my own chakras 7 and 6 seems having a kind of strong current passing through, the body was moving non-stop. The tips of the fingers have pins and needles feeling, it is like movie acting, really is amazing! Approximately 20 minutes passed, I could hear my child’s breathing from the mouth moved to the nose, immediately I see the amazement of Longevityology. My confidence increased, continued to apply adjustments for my child, after another 10 minutes, the noisy breathing sound slowly reduced, gradually and finally I could hear the breathing sound that made my heart feel save. For the following days, and with more chakras opening, I could feel the universal energy continuously entering the body, even when I apply adjustments to my child, with my eyes closed; I could see light from top of my head like a waterfall coming down. Now, as soon as my heart quiet down, I could feel the wonders of universal energy inside the body moving around.
